the present collection of essays has originally been prepared for an international conference entitled maritime space in traditional chinese sources which has been convened by the editors at munich university in february 2005 the contributions included here introduce various aspects related to east asian seas from the japanese sea to the south china sea with the yellow and east china seas constituting the core regions of the entire area and some of its adjacent areas although braudelian categories are inherently present in the discussion and directly addressed in one or two papers the focus lies on a set of more basic variables which are intimately linked to the idea of contact zones or alternatively the parallel and apparently older notion that the sea should be seen as a protective belt around the mainland this volume is consequently primarily concerned with the perception of maritime space in traditional chinese sources the division of this space into oceans and seas the existence usage and management of trade routes and above all of china s coastal waters or maritime periphery for this purpose in addition to textual sources maps will be examined as well as the perception division and management of maritime space cannot be completely disassociated from other themes such as trade and travel diplomacy and military controls or even daily life during a sea voyage these aspects were also touched upon in the discussion but they are of secondary importance and subordinated to the general issue of geography with this in mind following an introductory essay by angela schottenhammer the contributions are divided into three sections 1 maritime space trade and defence 2 maritime space coasts routes oceans 3 maritime space and maps the articles by chang pin tsun jane kate leonard and jung byung chul fall into the first category those by chen bo liu yingsheng sally k church christine moll murata li tana and mathieu torck belong to the second group while the last section is comprised by the papers of li xiaocong claudine salmon and roderich ptak there are many cross connections between these essays geographically some of them pertain to the northern spheres especially the liaodong korea region others look at the south china sea or even at areas far beyond these two some are case studies others deal with general dimensions the military element usually in the form of coastal defence is not only present in the first section but also in the cartographic segment and in one or two contributions which appear in part two furthermore readers will find that the idea of contact zones associated with a good degree of open mindedness towards the outer world is present in some texts just as they will discover that in other cases the sea still appears as a kind of barrier in this major new study margherita zanasi argues that basic notions of a free market economy emerged in china a century and half earlier than in europe in response to the commercial revolutions of the late 1500s chinese intellectuals and officials called for the end of state intervention in the market recognizing its power to self regulate they also noted the elasticity of domestic demand and production arguing in favour of ending long standing rules against luxury consumption an idea that emerged in europe in the late seventeenth and early nineteenth centuries zanasi challenges eurocentric theories of economic modernization as well as the assumption that european enlightenment thought was unique in its ability to produce innovative economic ideas she instead establishes a direct connection between observations of local economic conditions and the formulation of new theories revealing the unexpected flexibility of the confucian tradition and its accommodation of seemingly unorthodox ideas the western literature on the history of chinese economic thought is sparse and comparisons with the history of western economic thought even more so this pioneering book brings together western and chinese scholars to reflect on the historical evolution of economic thought in europe and china the international panel of contributors cover key topics such as currency usury land tenure the granary system welfare and government and special attention is given to monetary institutions and policies the problem of good government emerges as the unifying thread of a complex analysis that includes both theoretical issues and applied economics chinese lines of evolution include the problem of the agency of the state its ideological justification the financing of public expenditure the role played by the public administration and the provision of credit the early radical condemnation of usury in the near east and in the west gives way to theoretical justifications of interest taking in early capitalist europe they in turn lead to advances in mathematics and business administration and represent one of the origins of modern economic theory other uniting themes include the relationship between metallic and paper money in chinese and european experiences and the cross fertilization of economic practices and ideas in the course of their pluri millennial interactions differences emerge the approach to the organization of economic life was and still is more state centred in china the editors bring together these analytical threads in a final chapter opening wider horizons for this new line of comparative economic research which is important for the understanding of modern ideological turns this volume provides valuable reading for scholars in the history of economic thought economic history and chinese studies
